M: Sorry, Miss Lin.

7. M: Can I take my mobile phone to school?

W: I'm afraid not.

8. W: What's wrong, Max? You look tired.

M: I borrowed your VCD and watched it last night. It was really interesting.

9. M: Lucy, you are late again!

W: Sorry, sir. I got up late this morning.

10. M: How much are these fruits?

W: Well, the apples are ten yuan and the oranges are fourteen yuan.

M: OK. Here is the money.

(6-10 CBBBC)

III. (A)

M: Can I help you, madam?

W: Yes, sir. I can't find my daughter. Would you please help me find her?

M: Sit down, please. Now tell me what she looks like first.

W: Er... She is only four years old and her name is Ma Lili. She has a round face, two big eyes and black hair. She is wearing a white sweater, and...

M: Don't worry. We'll do our best to help you.

(B)

W: I don't want to do the homework all day.

What can we do on Saturday, Jack?

M: Let's have a party at your home.

W: No, we can't. My Dad has to take a rest at home. What about a movie?

M: Linda is going to see a movie called "The Day after Tomorrow". We can go with her.

W: Good idea. We can do some shopping after the movie. There is a new dress shop opening on Saturday. It's a little far from here. We can go there by bike.

M: OK. See you tomorrow then.

(11-15 CBBAB)

IV. Dear Sue,

You asked me about my house rules. They are terrible! I have to give my sister breakfast every morning before school. I can't leave before she finishes it, so I am sometimes late for school. When I come home, I have to finish all my homework and cook dinner for the family. This is because my mom works in the evenings. I can't watch TV on school nights. That's not fair because I don't always have homework. I have to practice the piano every week. Sometimes I'm too tired but I still have to do it. And I can't go out on Friday nights with my friends because I have to look after my sister. My parents go out together and then I never have any fun.

What are your rules like?

Yours,
Linda

M: Cool! How's the weather there?

W: Great! Hot and sunny. How's the weather in Shanghai?

M: Also hot. And really humid.

(11-15 ABCAA )

IV. Different countries have different weather. Today is April 30th. I'd like to tell you different weather in some big cities.

Shanghai is sunny. There is beautiful sunshine in the day, but it is very cold at night. So please wear warm clothes if you go out at night. Tokyo is rainy, but it isn't very cold. So it isn't a bad day. Sydney is windy today. It's a little cold. New York is sunny, but it is not very hot today. You can have a fine day in New York. Paris is cloudy, and it is cold during the day. So it's important to keep warm today.

- IV. Johnson is an eight-year-old boy. Johnson is a good boy. Johnson does well in all his lessons. Johnson loves school and he is always active in class. Every time the teacher asks a question, Johnson always puts up his hand quickly. Sometimes his answer is wrong, but the teacher always smiles and says, "Good, Johnson. But is there a better answer to my question?"

One day, the teacher asks the boys and girls a question. "Swallows fly to the south before winter is coming," he says. "But why don't cats and dogs do the same?" Johnson lifts his hand as usual. "Yes, Johnson?" says the teacher happily. Johnson stands up and says, "Because they have no wings."
